

Hope for Haiti®

Donate Now

Help us give the gift of nutrition this Thanksgiving to all children in need

Tune in to ABC-7 Every Night This Week for the "Heroes of Hope" series on Hope for Haiti's work.

Journalist Paul Gessler chronicles progress since the earthquake during the Board of Directors' meeting in Haiti.

A Thankful Mother Receives the Gift of Nutrition and HOPE for Her Children

The woman smiled, lowering her chin to look at her shoes. She was timid; her voice shook quietly as she spoke. "When I came here," she said in Creole, "I thought my babies were going to die. I had nowhere else to go."

Scenes like this are all too common in Haiti's rural countryside. Toddlers walk around with thinning hair and swollen bellies - symptoms of severe malnutrition. By partnering with three local clinics, Hope for Haiti helps provide over 13,000 beneficiaries with access to Nutrition Programs.

The twins in May 2011

The woman had brought her twins to Timoun Kontan, translated as "Happy Children," located

SAVE THE DATE!

Hope for Haiti Gala

"A Passport to the Secret Garden"

March 3, 2012
Naples, FL

For sponsorship and ticket information please contact Elizabeth Davison

Read Updates from our Program Staff in Haiti here:

"From the Field"

Follow us on

Like us on Facebook

Kreyòl/Creole Corner

Petit pa janm mouri pou manman. Se manman ki mouri pou petit.

Children never die for their

1.5 hours off a paved road in rural Aquin. Most of the mothers walk for hours to get here; the facility really is their last hope.

The twins entered Timoun Kontan in May, barely able to sit up and on constant IV Fluids. Now, six months later, they are nearing the normal weight threshold. They can sit up, crawl, and play, and they have been adjusting to normal food like Pedialyte and crackers. When speaking about their release this month, the twins' mother beamed--"I have followed and participated in the trainings." With your help, Hope for Haiti can continue to support malnourished children like the twins throughout Haiti.

The twins in November 2011. Happy and healthy!

Please give a gift in thanksgiving for our Nutrition Partners who are able to breathe life and love into the children in their care and DONATE NOW. Thank you and Happy Thanksgiving!

mothers. Mothers are the ones who die for their children.

Join My Mailing List

P.S. Don't forget to tune in to ABC-7 every night this week for the "Heroes of Hope" series on Hope for Haiti's work.

Journalist Paul Gessler chronicles progress since the earthquake during the Board of Directors' meeting in Haiti.

Hope for Haiti's Annual Gala
Saturday, March 3, 2012
Jubilee Center, 475 9th Avenue South, Naples, FL 34102
Click here for more info, RSVP, Donation Form, and Sponsorship

Click for Info, RSVP
Donation, Sponsor

