Thank You and Farewell to Our Program Director, Patrick Eucalitto

It is with heavy hearts that Hope for Haiti bids goodbye to our fantastic Program Director, Patrick Eucalitto, this month. Words do not begin to express how much he will be missed as both a member of the Hope for Haiti team and a friend to all whom he touched with his work.

Patrick with some of his student friends!

After graduating from Georgetown University in 2009, Patrick chose to commit to two years as Program Director for Hope for Haiti. He arrived in Haiti only days after graduation, and his existing French skills and his gift for languages made him a natural for the job, allowing him to immediately make Haiti his home. Patrick's incredible energy and positive outlook enabled him to quickly expand and enhance Hope for Haiti's programs in Education, Nutrition, Healthcare, Public Health, and Emergency Relief. Patrick made it his personal mission and goal to listen to the needs and concerns of our partners, while continually improving, designing, tweaking, and monitoring Hope for Haiti's programs.

Although no one could have predicted the past 18 months would bring such heartache and challenges, we are grateful that Patrick was in Haiti when the country needed him the most. After the earthquake on January 12, 2010, Patrick spearheaded Hope for Haiti's relief efforts in Les Cayes, responding to the needs of the community and hundreds of Internally Displaced People (IDPs) who had fled from Port-au-Prince. He has helped families affected after this year's flooding, and he has continued to fight against the outbreak of cholera through the spread of education and medical access to Hope for Haiti's partners who need it most.

It is rare to encounter an individual with an unlimited capacity for kindness, honesty, and the utmost integrity of work. Patrick is all of these things and more! Our Board, staff, volunteers, and program partners will always remember his bottomless dedication to the mission of Hope for Haiti and his love for this beautiful country and her people.

We miss you already Patrick! And we all wish you the best! Kenbe fò!

With love and gratitude,

P.S. To find out more about Patrick's work over the last two years and to read our Haiti team's updates, please visit the From the Field page of our website. Help us honor Patrick's commitment to Hope for Haiti with a donation in support of these life-changing programs. Thank you!
